CLOSES AVENUE OF NEWS BECAUSE OF SERIOUSNESS OF SITUATION

French War Office Issues no Bulletins But Enough Leaks Through to Indicate Conditions.

ALLIES IN NORTH PRESSED

Lines Said to Have Been Penetrated Between Old Fortresses of Montmedy and Longwy.

BOTH MAY BE ABANDONED

Paris Newspapers Today Admit Allies Defense Has Received a Very Serious Check.

ONE STATEMENT IS MADE

War Office Declares That German Losses Are Three Times as Great as Allied Forces.

(By United Press.)

Paris, Aug. 27.—While the general staff has closed the avenues of news from the front because of the seriousness of the situation, enough has been permitted to leak through to indicate that the allied lines on the north are under heavy pressure.

Admission that a flanking force of Germans, said by some to number nearly two army corps, has been operating against the extreme left, indicates that the Germans are trying to force the withdrawal of part of the allied lines from the center and thus weaken it. It is now believed that this will be permitted as the reserve forces in the northwest should be strong enough to take care of any new assault in this section.

Cavalry raids in this section have already been repulsed by the French army with great havoc to the enemy.

The very frankness of the newspapers in admitting today that the French defense has received a serious check, has had the effect of clearing up the situation. The damage is not believed irreparable, and, even though the allied lines are forced back well within French territory, the consensus of opinion is that long before Paris can be seriously threatened, the Germans must withdraw to meet the Russian peril.

Significant of the difference between offensive and defensive tactics was a statement today by the war office that the German losses to date are estimated at three times those of the allies. And the latter are admittedly "staggering."

The war office again today withheld any official morning statement, but unofficial reports told of new German success in the northern parts of the departments of the Meuse and Meurthe-et-Moselle.

The allied lines are said to have penetrated between the old fortresses of Montmedy and Longwy. This has been anticipated, however, as it has been admitted by the war office that the strength of the German movement at this point, would eventually cause the abandonment of both Longwy and Montmedy.

BULLETIN.

(By United Press.)
London, Aug. 27.—So absolute is the censorship today that rumors of serious reverses to the allies are being widely circulated. They are very circumstantial in their details, going to the extent of declarations that the allies have been driven entirely out of southern Belgium. The war office professes to have no official information to make public.

MOVEMENT IS PROVIDED FOR

British War Office Insists Giving Away of Allies in Northern France Was Foreseen.

TWO FORTS REPORTED TAKEN

London Bureau Says They Are Comparatively Unimportant, Having Been Isolated by Germans.

(By United Press.)

London, Aug. 27.—The allied army is giving way in Northern France. The war office, however, refuses to furnish any details, but insists that the movement has already been provided for. Reports that the forts of Longwy and Montmedy have been captured by the Germans are again current. Their capture, however, is declared by the military experts, to be comparatively unimportant, inasmuch as they had already been isolated by the German enveloping movement.

The chief puzzle, however, is the whereabouts of the British troops. The French office accounts place them at several points within French territory, and this is accepted as meaning that the Germans now control all of southern Belgium and are well across the French border.

A report that all of the forts at Namur have been reduced by the Germans, thus removing a serious menace from their flank, was again circulated. However, this report was discounted by the war office admission on Monday that the town had fallen. Since then, attempts have been made by the Belgians to discount the official statement by insisting that only a few of the forts had been reduced. The war office experts on Monday, however, made it very clear there was no chance that the forts could hold out, as their reductions was only a question of artillery and men.

The newspapers today bitterly complained of the censorship. They declare newspapers abroad are being permitted to tell the facts and they warn the cabinet that little enthusiasm can be expected for the war, or recruiting be stimulated unless some of the real facts are permitted to become known.

GERMANS SLOWLY RETREAT

Do Not Contemplate Pitch Battle With Invading Russians Now.

(By United Press.)

St. Petersburg, Aug. 27.—That the German defense of its territory does not contemplate a pitched battle except on ground selected by the German staff itself, is now considered certain. Reports from the front indicate the Germans are making no definite stand. They are slowly retreating before the Russian advance, inflicting all of the damage possible, as they move back on their main line of fortifications.

The Russian left the center armies, operating in force along the lines previously laid down, have bottled up the German garrisons of the eastern Prussian forts.

CREAMERY MAY BE BROUGHT HERE

Probable That Negotiations With Schlosser Brothers and Chamber of Commerce Will Succeed.

A COMMITTEE IS APPOINTED

Will Confer About Purchase of Ground Here—Plant Valued at About $40,000 Would Be Built.

The board of directors of the Rush County Chamber of Commerce held a meeting last night and discussed the proposition of locating a branch creamery operated by Schlosser Brothers. The only definite thing accomplished at the meeting was the appointment of a committee to confer about the purchase of some local property where Schlosser brothers could build a local branch.

Another meeting of the board of directors will be held in three or four days when the committee will likely be ready to report and something tangible is likely to result from the effort of the Chamber of Commerce to land the plant.

Schlosser Brothers is one of the biggest creamery concerns in Indiana with branches at Frankfort, Indianapolis, Plymouth and Bremen. They are desirous of locating here. This is proved by the fact that they came to Rushville seeking a location.

The secretary of the Chamber of Commerce has been working on the proposition for more than a month, but very little publicity has been given to the enterprise for fear that it stages. But the negotiations have now progressed so far that there are indications that the Chamber of Commerce may locate it here. One or two things stand in the way but it is believed they can be cleared up.

Schlosser Brothers agree to build a plant valued at from thirty to forty thousand dollars by May 1 if it is finally arranged for them to locate here. Inquiry which the Chamber of Commerce has made of bankers and others reveal that Schlosser Brothers is a firm with a high rating and which is dependable.

CLIMBED UP AND CLIMBED BACK DOWN

Glen Smith, Rushville Boy, Thought He Would Like to Make High Dive at Fair Grounds.

FOUND 106 FEET WAS UP SOME

Glen Smith, a local boy, thought he would like to make the high dive yesterday at the fair and succeeded in inducing Leo Nomis, the high diver, to let him make the leap. Smith was induced to the crowd as Dare Devil Smithie, and arrayed in a pair of pink tights, he looked like a real-for-se high diver. But he got cold feet or lost his nerve or something, for after standing at the top of the 106 foot ladder for about fifteen minutes he decided to come down and Nomis was compelled to make the dive.

Smith went to Nomis and stated that he had been "kidded" by his friends about making the high dive and wanted a chance to show them that he could do it. Nomis agreed that he should make it but would take no responsibility for Smith's acts. Smith is today receiving more "kidding" than ever.

MAY BE HELD TO THE GRAND JURY

William Floyd Detained in Jail Until Prosecutor Determines Whether Charge is Right.

PROWLING ABOUT MATLOCK'S

Is Charged With Attempting to Break Into House—Tells Mayor a Strange Story.

William Floyd, of West Eighth street, went out to look for a man at eleven o'clock last night to tell him he would go to the fair today, and as a result was arrested charged with attempting to break into the home of Alfred Matlock, 819 West Ninth street.

Floyd was taken back to jail this morning following the hearing to await the decision of Prosecutor Smith, who desired to look up the law on the question. The officers are inclined to believe that Floyd is not charged rightly in the affidavit. If the charge is placed right he will in all probability be bound over to the grand jury by Mayor Behout.

The police were called to the home of Matlock at eleven-thirty o'clock last night where Floyd was held. At the trial this morning Matlock stated that he went home from the tent show shortly after eleven o'clock and had not been home long when he noticed a man prowling in the alley along side of his house. Mr. Matlock said the man came back twice and the last time he took hold of the screen in the window and made an effort to raise it. Just at this time he called to him and then held Floyd until the police arrived.

Floyd told a very unreasonable story to Mayor Behout. He said that he was going to the fair last night with a man and that because of a sick baby did not get to go. As a result he decided to go today and started out at that time of the night to find him and tell him that he would be there. He said he saw a light in the home of Matlock and admitted looking in the window. The name of the man he was looking for was given as Calvin Bard.

Floyd stated that he had lived in his present residence for about a month and did not even know Matlock, who lived in Ninth street directly back of him. Floyd stated that he had no intentions of wrong doing.

LEAPS IN AIR AND FALLS ON RADIATOR

Frank Toole of Near Andersonville Has Narrow Escape From Being Run Down by Frank McCorkle.

ACCIDENT AT STREET CORNER

Frank Toole, of near Andersonville, had a narrow escape from being injured late yesterday afternoon when he stepped from the rear of an auto truck directly in front of the automobile driven by Frank McCorkle. Toole saw the machine coming but not in time and in an effort to save himself sprang into the air and was thrown back over the hood of the machine. He was carried in this position for a distance of thirty feet. The accident occurred at the corner of Second and Julian streets and Mr. Toole was returning from the fair grounds. He escaped with a slight cut on one hand. One of the lamps of the machine was broken.

BABIES GIVEN MEDALS TODAY

Emerson Barlow, Son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barlow, Scores Highest With 99.

MARY MARSHALL BEST GIRL

People Begin to go to Fair Grounds Early Today Indicating Thursday Continues Popular Day

The awarding of prizes in the better babies contest held the chief interest for persons attending the fair this morning. The medals to the best girl baby and the best boy baby were awarded in the grand stand this morning at ten thirty o'clock.

The medal for the best boy went to Emerson William Barlow, son of Mr. and Mrs. Clyde Barlow, living six miles southwest of here. He scored ninety-nine. The medal for the best girl was given to Mary Marshall, daughter of Mr. and Mrs. Charles Marshall, living three miles west of Arlington. Her score was ninety-six.

There were six boys who scored above the high girl and two other boys who tied with her at ninety-six. In all there were eleven girls and twenty-eight boys in the contest.

The fact that the scoring committee refused to make public the scores of the babies who fell below ninety-five will doubtless come as a disappointment to persons who had taken some interest in the contest. It is believed that the chief interest to the public in general, aside from the personal interest to each mother in learning the defects of her baby, lay in the scores of the babies. The scoring committee absolutely refused to make public the scores though the fear in the minds of the committee that some mothers whose babies scored low might be offended. All of the scores were above eighty and therefore very creditable.

Although the sky was hazy this morning, people began going to the fair grounds early, apparently having no fear that rain might interfere with the day's program. Thursday, as is always the case, gave promise of being the biggest day of the week.

A large crowd was on the fair grounds last night. Tuesday night the weather was such that people could not very well attend the fair. Last night the shows all did a good business. The fireworks display although not quite as long as it was assured the fair committee it would be, pleased the crowd nevertheless. The display went off without a hitch.

In connection with the awarding of the prizes in the better babies contest at the fair grounds this morning, there were to be some talks along the lines for which the contest was instituted. Mrs. Louis Lambert, chairman of the scoring committee, announced the prizes and distributed the score cards to the mothers.

In addition to the medals, the two winners were to receive some prizes offered by the merchants of the city. The fair catalogue called for the awarding of these prizes to the high scoring babies.

Frank William Pickard, son of Mr. and Mrs. Everett Pickard of this city, was second in point of score. His score was ninety-eight and a half points. Ralph McKinney, son of Mr. and Mrs. James McKinney, and Hal Eugene Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Hal Green, of north of the city, tied for third honors with a score of ninety-eight. John Green, son of Mr. and Mrs. Derby Green of North Main street, scored ninety-seven points.

DEMOCRATS ON THE OFFENSIVE

Their Record in Last Legislature Makes it Imperative That They Present an Excuse.

WAY BILLS WENT THROUGH

Hoosier Republicans Are Credited With Taking Lead by Correspondent of Cincinnati Enquirer.

Robert G. Tucker, Indiana correspondent for the Cincinnati Enquirer in his letter Sunday reviewing the political situation in Hoosierdom, gives the Republican organization credit with setting the pace this year and with having the ground plans laid for a campaign that is going to keep the democrats mighty busy and mighty anxious. His discussion of this phase of the campaign is as follows:

If plans that are in contemplation now by some of the republican leaders are carried out, Homer Cook, of Indianapolis, Speaker of the last Indiana House of Representatives and present Democratic nominee for Secretary of State, may find his campaign tour in September and October anything but pleasant. These same plans include a nice job of hazing at the expense of Governor Samuel M. Ralston, who will be one of the principal spellbinders for his party.

It is necessary to go back a little to explain what is being arranged for Cook and the Gov. During the last session of the Legislature a few bills that were not introduced for the benefit of the common people, but for the purpose of causing them to put more money in the pay envelope of some of their public servants, were killed by the House of the Senate.

Afterwards, by some underhand process, they were resurrected and handed to the Governor and signed by him. They bore the appearance of being regularly enacted bills, having been signed by Cook as Speaker of the House and Lieutenant Governor O'Neill as presiding officer of the Senate.

The Governor is about the busiest individual in Indiana during the last month of the Legislature, when the bills begin to roll in on him at the rate of a dozen or two a day. He is not expected to go out and employ a detective or two to see that every one of the bills came through in a perfectly proper manner. In fact, the Supreme Court has held that when a bill is signed by the Speaker of the House and the Lieutenant Governor there is no going behind the record.

The Governor accepted the bills at face value and signed those that seemed to be worthy of his signature. It now appears that more than one bill was foisted on him. The House journal is not as illuminating as desired on a number of matters, as a

As Job Would Have Felt When Boils Burst, So Does Mexico Today

BY WILLIAM G. SHEPHERD.
(U. P. Staff Correspondent.)

Mexico City, July 29. (By Mail to New York.)—It's a different Mexico. If all Job's boils had burst at one and the same time, and all the pain and purple, fevered swelling has disappeared in one grand bang of cores, Job might have felt something like Mexico feels today. The wonder to a man who has had a carbuncle lanced is that so much pain can disappear in such a short instant. And Mexico today is like an ex-sufferer of carbuncle wondering and happy and willing almost to kiss the surgeon.

A little, iron-grey haired Indian with a stubby mustache had dashed through the streets of the capital one morning in an automobile; he had alighted at a railroad station, climbed into a waiting Pullman, said to the porter, "Hello, my boy; glad to see you; If you've got anything to drink in this car bring me a double cognac." The engine bell had rung, the conductor had shouted, "All aboard," the train had started—and the core of Mexico's carbuncle had been expelled. That railroad engine, No. 27, was the strongly drawing poultice; Huerta, sipping his good-bye cognac, was the core! the Mexican capital and all the land of Mexico was the happy patient.

There were hundreds of thousands of men in Mexico who slept soundly that night for the first time in months. The rich man slept peacefully in his mansion because he knew that at last his wealth was safe; the poor man slept soundly in his dobe but because he knew that Huerta, the man who in the dead of night dragged peons from their beds and families and put them, into his starving army, had gone. The wonder of it all, to rich and poor, was that anything so small as a Pullman car could carry away from the nation such a gigantic horror as this man Huerta had been. But the Pullman car did it. In the Arabian Nights a fisherman found on the seashore a small casket which contained the terrible geni which when released, was so huge in size it filled the sky. So the Pullman car, with a little iron-grey haired man sleeping in his clothes, on a red plush settee, inside, contained a terror that had been suspended over the nation like a vast cloud and that had hung over the lives and homes of Mexico's men, women and children as the shadows of the dead oleanos hang over the beautiful Mexico City.

It is hard at first to believe the change had really come. When I departed from the capital on April 22, howling mobs were traversing the streets, yelling for Yankee blood. I had slipped through the streets under the tarpaulin of a coach, to the depot. The cable office had been closed to American newspaper men and they had been given to understand that they must get out or go to jail. The only one of our number who was foolhardy enough to stay had been arrested and had "disappeared" and has never been found in any jail or graveyard. It was an only Mexico we left on April 22.

But no sooner was Huerta out than the American newspaper men were in. It wasn't a comfortable job coming back either, because we could not realize how great and sudden the change had been. It was after dark when we drew into the railroad station. There were five of us, the first American correspondents to return. One of us had tried to enter the capital once before and had been arrested at the station, jailed and deported. We arranged to leave the train singly for we expected that secret service men might be waiting for us on the station platform. And so, one by one, we made our way through the depot crowd. But the expected taps on the shoulder didn't come. Only a horde of yelling hotel commissionaires laid their hands on us. A Mexican and an English newspaper man greeted us.

"It's all right," said the Mexican, who used to do his writing in Texas. "Welcome to our city. The old man has beat it. The fly cops have faded away. There are 3,000 Zapatistas on the outskirts of the city hammering to get in, and Huerta has left only 300 soldiers in the city. You fellows are going to see the city looted like a chicken coop. You're here just in time for the big blow-off."

Even the streets seem different as our coach rolled along through the rain. The presence of horror was no more. A train had carried it away. Peace seemed to brood over the domes and parks and streets and homes of the Mexican city. What if the Zapatistas were fighting to enter the city? What if the wounded and dying Federals of that brave little band of 300 were being brought into the city in coaches and street cars. What if the great auto truck, loaded with Mexican Red Cross nurses, dashed past us toward the stubborn battlefield? What, even, if the Zapatistas did come into the city? They were a danger that a man could see and meet, face to face, and fight, hand to hand. They were not an unseeable, untouchable, unfightable Terror, such as the Pullman car had drawn away. That was how we felt and that was how the people of Mexico felt that night after Huerta had gone.

By the next day Mexico had begun to find itself again. The morning newspapers began to tell of the terrible things Huerta had done; of the awful crimes; of murders and assassinations; of millions of money which the fleeing Huertistas had taken with them; of how Huerta had looted the public so at the last moment and given a banquet of deer, bear and game-bird meat; how his henchmen had matched pennies among themselves for government automobiles which they carried away with them; how one cabinet minister named Losano had almost brained his chauffeur with a bottle as a drunken farewell; how Urrutia, now finding shelter in the United States, had murdered and tortured some of Mexico's wisest men; how Moheno also had sold precious concessions for a song. Bereaved families began to search openly in graveyards and prisons for knowledge of relatives. Flowers were toted by the ton to Madero's grave. The truth came out. Each man in the capital was his own man's man. Mexico knew she was facing a new day and a new chance to climb to her place among other nations.

It's here in the capital that one sees most clearly the patience, kindness, bigness and dignity with which the United States, sponsor and protector of the Republican form of government on this globe, big brother of all nations that have presidents instead of kings, has treated and helped the Republic of Mexico as it stumbled and staggered through the dark days of Huerta's tyranny. Looking at it from here it makes you proud to be an American.

GERMANS FAIL TO HELP SELVES

Position After Stemming French Offensive Does not Seem to Have Improved Any

MAY FIGHT TO A STANDSTILL

Invaders Apparently Change Their Campaign, Attacking France's Badly Protected

New York, Aug. 27.—The position of the German forces, after their success in stemming the French offensive, does not seem to have improved. The official reports make it seem probable that the allies are now holding the German advance in check, just as their offense was broken up. The possibility that the belligerents may fight each other to a mutually exhausting standstill, is evident. The narrow slip of frontier between the German fortresses to the east and the French fortresses to the west may comprise the essential theatre of the war.

It is certain that the give-and-take on both sides, has not been beyond the fortress boundaries to the present, and there is a fair chance that the width of the area of hostilities will be in inverse proportion to its length.

A new condition confronting the commanders of the forces engaged in the momentous struggle, is the necessity for complete and rapid change of strategy. Never before has the ability to alter plans quickly, been so vital a force in warfare.

The quickness with this may be done by one side or the other may be the deciding influence in this great battle.

The fighting front of 200 miles, on which probably a million men are engaged, must constitute unexpected strength or weakness. Their quick discovery by the commanders-in-chief, is a matter of great difficulty, but the reward is enormous.

An important strategic change seems to have been made by the Germans. The original plan for a march through Belgium toward Lille, apparently has been changed, and the main assault probably now is developing along France's badly defended frontier of 100 miles between Maubeuge and Verdun. This has always been the weak spot in French defense. It is protested only by isolated fortresses at Hirson, Given, Nezieres, Montmedy and Olnegwy.

The French have been told their forces would be able to operate successfully against a German advance in this quarter, but the general staff shown its own uneasiness last year by basing an additional frontier army corps on Mezieres.

Fifty miles back, toward Paris, is the great modern defensive line La Fere-Laon-Rheims-Chalons, but if the French are compelled to fall back there the backbone of the field army probably will have been broken.

UNCLE SAM IS MAKING MOVIES

Whole Country Will Soon be Gazing on Pictures From Aggie Department Laboratory

CLASSED AS EDUCATIONAL

Logan Waller Page Says There is no Such Thing as "Permanent" Road

(By United Press.)

Washington, Aug. 27.—A "movie" laboratory for manufacture and exhibition of moving pictures—all free—is a new enterprise of the Department of Agriculture, although not generally known outside of the officials and participants. The whole country however, soon will be gazing upon Uncle Sam's movies—all free.

The films are classed as "educational." They will be exhibited at colleges, universities and state agricultural experiment stations, in addition to many rural centers.

The work is in charge of the Division of Publications. It is planned to distribute reels of the films free, also for exhibition in regular movie theatres.

The most recent motion pictures taken were those of the forest service in the far west. Rangers were taken in action. Indians on reservations were filmed and picturesque mountain and woodland views were secured.

Photos also have been taken of the strawberry industry in Warren county Ky., showing the berries from the patch to the palate. "Another film shows how congressional "free seeds" are distributed. The dairy industry, picturing co-operative cow testing in Vermont, is the subject of another 1,000 feet film.

Preparation of paper from the log to the sheet is the subject of another film, made at Madison, Wisconsin. One of the feature films of Uncle Sam is a "Seeing Washington" film of 2,000 feet, taken when boys of various corn clubs were here last fall.

Pictures of the great variety of animals at the National Zoo have also been taken. The "green" operators had some trouble there, a lion objecting to the clicking of the camera while an ostrich tried to kick out its lense.

"No permanent road has ever been constructed or ever will be," is the judicial opinion of Logan Waller Page, director of the office of good roads of the Department of Agriculture. He strenuously objects to the use of the word "permanent" as applied to roads, declaring that the utopia of permanent roads is no nearer solution than perpetual motion.

"The general impression that certain types of roads are permanent is erroneous," said Page. "The only things about a road that may be considered permanent are the grading, culverts and bridges. Roads constructed by the most skillful highway engineers will soon be destroyed by the traffic, frost, rain and wind, unless they are properly maintained. But the life of these roads may be protected by scientific maintenance.

"A poor road will not only be improved by proper maintenance but in time may become better than a good road without proper maintenance."

Hot weather warnings to dairymen against holding their milk before shipping it to market have been issued by the Department of Agriculture. Mixing of milk from afternoon and morning milkings for shipment the morning of the day following is deplored by the department. The best practice is said to be to keep both milkings separated, cooled during the night, and then shipped.

Protection of orioles, swallows and night hawks by cotton growers because of their destruction of the boll weevil is the subject of a unique and helpful document issued by the United States Biological Survey. The Bureau has discovered that sixty kinds of birds eat the weevil, but that the oriole, barn swallow, rough-winged swallow, band swallow, cliff swallow and martin are especially persistent enemies of the boll weevil.

From the standpoint of the farmer and cotton grower, the swallows are declared to be the most useful birds. They are built to capture weevils flying over the fields, which few other birds can and will do.

Even the common blackbird, meadowlark and killdeer aid in the killing of the boll weevil.

ALLENDERS EXPECT CROWD AT REUNION

Interesting Feature Will be Reading of Genealogical Record of Family Just Prepared.

HAS PICTURES OF LOG CABIN

Great preparations are being made at Arlington for the Allender reunion which is to be held there next Tuesday, September 1st. A larger number than ever has signified their intention of attending this year, and the officers are expecting this to be the best of the association. The organization was only perfected two years ago and the first reunion was held at that time.

One of the most interesting features of the meeting this year will be the reading at that time of the genealogical record of the family, which the historian has prepared, and has notified the president is now ready. This has been printed in book form, and the booklet contains the names, dates of birth, addresses of those that are living, and dates of death of those not living. The historian reports that she has been able to gather about 1400 names and that the record is reasonably satisfactory, but as there are a few who have not yet been located, the intention is to continue the work, until a complete record is obtained, and then revise the booklet. The book contains also the picture of the remains of the log house erected by George Allender after he came to Rush county in 1826, and the picture of his wife Elizabeth. Mr. Allender never has his picture taken.

Amusements

The Gem will show the third series of "Sophia of the Films" for the first picture tonight. Eddie Lyons and Victoria Ford is featured. Sophia is given one more chance to act for the movies and as usual the scenes are very amusing. The second picture is "The Gun Men of Plumas" featuring Dolly Larkin and Arthur Allard. The last is a Joker entitled "A Quiet Day at Murphy's." Tomorrow night the Victor "The Silent Witness" will be shown. J. Warren Kerrigan is featured.

The Princess will show a two reel feature "Nina of the Theatre" for the first picture tonight. Alice Joyce and Tom Moore are featured and it is said to be a dramatic picture telling an interesting story. The other is a Biograph comedy "By the Old Dead Tree." Tomorrow night "A Wayward Daughter" featuring Norma Talmage and an Dyke Brook will be shown.

The Guy Players, which are showing this week in their large tent on the ball park will present "The Secret Service" for the bill tonight. This is said to be one of the best bills of the week. The Guy Players continue to win approval here and the plays so far have been witnessed by large audiences.

toe. Quit punishing your feet by using toe-eating salves and ointments. To use knives, files, scissors and razors, slicing and hacking at a corn, only make it grow faster and bigger. It also brings danger of bleeding and blood poison. The new way, the new principle never known before in corn-history, is "GETS-IT." It's a liquid—2 drops on a corn does the work. Pain goes, the corn begins to shrivel and out it comes! You apply it in two seconds. Nothing to stick, nothing to hurt, and it never fails. Try "GETS-IT" tonight on corns, calluses, warts or bunions. OVER 100,000 BOY SCOUTS ARE IN SEMI-MILITARY SERVICE IN ENGLAND

They Respond to Call of Chief Scout to Help Out in Perilous Times of War

SOME DUTIES THEY PERFORM

London, Aug. 27.—In response to the call of Chief Scout General Sir R. Baden-Powell, more than 100,000 boy scouts are now performing semi-military service throughout England, and thousands are volunteering daily. Their duties include the guarding and patrolling of Bridges, culverts, telegraph and telephone lines; acting as guides; serving as signallers; carrying despatches; collecting information as to supplies; picking up and forwarding despatches dropped by air-craft; assisting coast guards as sea scouts, and distributing notices to inhabitants.

In Kent, alone 1,000 boy scouts are guarding railway stations, bridges and culverts, while 2,000 are on the lookout for possible telegraph and telephone wire cutters. In calling upon the boys, General Baden-Powell issued the following appeal:

"Boys of Britain"
"Don't go about waving flags and shouting because there is war. Any ass can do that. And don't stay idle doing nothing—that is almost worse. Come and do something for your country. She needs your help."

"The boy scouts are now in service in all parts of the kingdom. Come and join the nearest troop in your own district, and do duty like a man."

OFFICIAL SEASON OPENS TOMORROW

Then it is That 635,427 Sneezes
Will Begin to Sneeze Because It's Time to Sneeze.

LASTS UNTIL FROST COMES

Throughout the length and breadth of the land, the official hay fever season will open tomorrow to the accompaniment of approximately 635,427 sneezes. (That's the number of hay fever victims who are said to suffer annually in the United States).

There may have been numerous hay fever sneezes heard previous to today, but these were merely desultory cackles. They were, so to speak, the advance guard of the forces which will open with the heavy artillery of sneezes tomorrow.

By some strange fate or law of nature, which as yet is not explained the victims of this obnoxious malady some times after this date, according to many victims, they are attacked. It is about that time that the pollen from dandelions and other growths begin to float through the air, and it is the presence of these all but invisible tiny particles in the atmosphere that causes the hay fever. Only after the first frost do the majority of sufferers get relief from constant sneezing and other uncomfortable effects of hay fever.

DAYS OF FAMILES IS PASSED

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 27.—"The new Leonard's Springs dam a reservoir will be completed within thirty days and water will be turned in immediately upon the completion of the dam," said Mayor Harris of this city today. In the opinion of Bloomington city officials and business men the new reservoir of the Leonard's Springs, two miles west of the city, will solve the water situation in this city. The recent rains have increased the flow of the springs and it is believed that the day of water famines in Bloomington is passed.

The report just received from the State Chemist on the city and Indiana University water gives both waters as satisfactory and entirely free from injurious bacteria.

HAVE GOOD CAUSE TO KICK SELVES

Bill Rairden and Vin Campbell Members of Boston Braves in National League Last Year.

JUMPED TO THE FEDERALS

Now Braves Are Fighting With New York For First Place After Spectacular Climb up Ladder.

BY HAL SHERIDAN

(Written for United Press.)

New York, Aug. 27.—If there ever were two ball players in the world who have a legitimate excuse for kicking themselves all over a ball lot, Vin Campbell and Bill Rairden, outfielder and catcher respectively on the Indianapolis Federal League base ball club are the ones.

These two athletes—both stars—last year were members of the Boston National league club. Campbell didn't play in 1913, having quit the national pastime in a huff the season previous but they still belonged to the Braves and at the beginning of this season he was imported by George Stallings, the Braves' manager, to join the club.

Rairden was a member of the club last year. He caught the majority of Boston's games and was ranked as one of the classiest receivers in the National league. During last winter Federal league agents whispered luring offers into the ears of both Campbell and Rairden. The athletes listened and began to fall as the fed agent named sums much in excess of the salaries they were receiving at Boston.

Now Boston last year was a down and out with no show of getting in to the world's series money. And the prospects for 1914 were not much brighter at the time the new league's agents were after Rairden and Campbell. And so it was not strange that Rairden and Campbell should jump to the outlaw circuit with a chance to make more money.

But now with the Boston Braves knocking the props from under the Giants and being picked by many to win the National League flag, it's a different thing—much different. Rairden and Campbell groan every time they pick up a paper and read that Boston has won another game. A great many people are picking Stallings' bunch to cop the world's series, thus getting the fat end of the money there. Which causes Campbell and Rairden more agony when they think of the glory and the money which might possibly have been theirs.

The one grain of consolation left after the Australasian tennis team departed with the Davis cup is the fact that the greatest tennis player in the world still remains in America.

The racket stars from the far-away Antipodes did capture the trophy and took it back with them by winning three out of five clashes but they did not win the tennis championship of the world. Maurice E. Mc Loughlin the titian-haired son of California captured the honor for the U. S. A. He beat Wilding and Brooks in the singles, winning the only matches that America got away with.

McLoughlin's victories, coming only after desperately fought games, were a great blow to the invaders, too. In fact Wilding admitted after the tournament that he would rather have beaten McLoughlin for tennis championship of the world than to have captured the cup. Talking of McLoughlin, he said:

"He is wonderful. The Doherty brothers and my old friend 'Bill' Larned whom I always regarded as one of the greatest racket men in the world, never showed such tennis as did McLoughlin. The only thing that I am surprised about is that I managed to win one set from him in the singles. And as true sportsman he the end of the limit. We've got the Davis cup but we've lost the tennis championship of the world."

"Which would you rather have won?" he was asked. "Well, its a very nice cup," he replied. "We have had it in our possession four times since Mr. Davis awarded it—but, well I wish I could have beaten McLoughlin. To be known as the greatest tennis player in the world is a great honor."

Frank Chance continues to bring his Yankees along at a pleasing clip. The P. L. has whipped a real ball club into shape out of the odds and ends that were wished on him when he took over the reins of the New York American league club. Right now he has a fighting bunch of ball players, no particular stars, but a good machine that will last a long time. The present infield-Mullen at first, Boone at second, Beckingbaugh at short and Maisel at third—is putting up a bang up game. Mullen's hitting is improving every day and on the fielding end of the game he is away above the average. "Daniel" Boone at second has clouted his way right into Chance's heart. This youngster is hitting them in the pinches, when they are needed and there is very little likelihood of his being placed as the keystone sack guardian.

controversy has arisen as to where certain warrants for money went.

The Governor, as the head of his party and the first official of the state administration, has deemed it necessary to make an explanation through the press regarding certain warrants which, it is charged, were issued to a negro here known for many years as a faithful servant of National Committeeman Thomas Taggart.

Nowhere along the line, however, is the Governor being blamed for signing the bills that were killed before they reached him, as it is conceded that he had no means of knowing that they were fraudulent, since they bore the signatures of Cook and O'Neill. The Governor instituted an investigation of the crime, but no one has been arrested and it is not believed that any one will be caught, as the work was done several months ago, and it does not appear that whoever was employed to put the bills through left anything behind to disclose their identity.

The disclosures regarding the way certain bills were put through by fraud has given the Republicans and opponents of Cook in the Democratic party a new chance to knock him—and they are taking advantage of it in good shape. They started a story this week that the members of the Democratic organization and the other nominees on the state ticket were so wrought up over the situation that they have held meetings at which they decided to ask Cook to resign from the ticket.

WARNING FROM STATE OFFICE

State University's Football Team This Year Faces Hardest Schedule in its History

First Opportunity Hoosier Sportsmen Had Since Federal Migratory Game Law Became Effective.

(By United Press.)

Bloomington, Ind., Aug. 27.—"Competition will be the keynote of the Indiana University football season from September 20, when the conference ruling allows me to take charge, until the referee's whistle sounds the close of the season in the Purdue game, Nov. 21" said Clarence C. Childs, Indiana University's new football coach, commenting on the football prospects to a United Press representative today.

"It is my plan to make no cuts in the squad from the beginning of season until the Purdue game," continued Coach Childs. "I believe that the highest efficiency is obtained and the greatest good is received when every man who wishes to try out for the team is permitted to have a whole season to show what is in him. Also I believe that those who stay out faithfully throughout the season and do not make the Varsity should receive some recognition and I propose to recommend the awarding of "second" sweaters to such men.

"As to the season's prospects I am not prepared to say for I have met but very few of the men. I am in communication with 118 men, practically all of whom intend to try for the team. With such an abundance of material and with a thorough teaching of the fundamentals of the game I believe that some of the Big Nine schools will find Indiana a worthy foe this fall."

Coach Childs has been in this city for several weeks and is making a study of the situation here. Indiana students and alumni alike believe that the coming of the famous Yale athlete and Olympic champion will be the beginning of a new era in athletics at Indiana University. The new coach is one of the greatest athletes ever turned out by Yale University. He was prominent during his career at Yale in football, basketball, track, and crew work. He was the winner of third place in the hammer throw in the 1912 Olympic games. He stands 6 feet 2 inches and weighs more than 200 pounds.

Indiana University's football teams this year faces one of the hardest schedules that it has ever had. Two of the strongest universities of the Conference are met at the beginning of the season. The season opens September 26 when Indiana meets DePauw University on Jordan Field. This game will be played three days before the University opens—the first time such a thing has happened in the history of Indiana's football history.

The following Saturday, Oct. 3, the Crimson team journeys to Chicago where the strong University of Chicago team is met. Only once in Indiana's football history has Chicago been beaten by Indiana and with this year's game so early in the season the prospects are not bright. The following Saturday, October 10, Indiana meets her strongest rival with the exception of Purdue—the University of Illinois at Champaign. The Illinois game will be attended by many Indiana alumni, by Governor Ralston and Mayor Bell, of Indianapolis, Governor Ralston returning the call made upon him by Governor Dunne at the time of the Illinois game in Indianapolis last year.

The remainder of the schedule is as follows: Oct. 17, Northwestern University at Bloomington; Oct. 31, Miami University at Bloomington; Nov. 7, Ohio State University at Indianapolis; Nov. 21, Purdue University at Lafayette.

The annual home coming of Indiana alumni will be held in Indianapolis at the time of the Ohio State game. The Purdue game will be the big game of the season.

(By United Press.)

Indianapolis, Aug. 27.—With the open season for ducks and geese less than a week off, county clerks in Indiana are preparing for a record breaking issuance of licenses. This is the first opportunity Hoosier hunters have had to shoot ducks and geese since the federal migratory bird law went into effect, and as this law spoiled their spring shooting, they probably will be keener than ever for the sport. The season for ducks and geese will be open from September 1 to December 15, and then the firm of the federal government will again protect these birds. Snipe and plover are also legitimate game during this period.

A warning is issued through the office of the state fish and game commissioner not to shoot prairie chickens during this period. The various birds have different seasons in which they are protected. Prairie chickens may not be killed in Indiana for about three years—until the five-year period prescribed by law has elapsed. Quail and grouse may not be shot until November 10 to December 20 inclusive. Quail shooting is the principal sport of the Indiana hunters.

The squirrel season is now open and will remain thus until October 1. Hunting is a more popular sport this year than ever. At the office of the game commissioner it was stated that more licenses than usual have been issued this year. Some precautionary "don'ts" for the benefit of hunters are the following:

Don't hunt game birds between sunset and sunrise.

Don't kill song birds.

Don't destroy bird nests, unless those of sparrows and birds of prey.

Don't use hunting license not issued in your name. They are not transferable.

GIRLS HIKE FROM CONNERSVILLE HERE

The Misses Nancy Conwell and Mildred and Gladys Rieman Find it Rather Arduous Job.

FOOT-SORE AND SUN-BURNED

Blistered necks and sore feet today reminded three Connersville girls every few minutes of their "hike" of eighteen miles from Connersville to Rushville yesterday. They started for Rushville at eight o'clock yesterday morning and arrived here at two o'clock in the afternoon, foot-sore and sun-burned. They now have to their credit a record of three miles an hour for six hours. The girls were the Misses Nancy Conwell and Gladys and Mildred Rieman.

When they started on the tramp, the girls resolved to arrive in Rushville in time for dinner or else beg for something to eat. They had to do the latter. They lived on some dried bread, apples and peaches which some kind-hearted farmers who are in the habit of having tramps call at their door gave them.

It is useless to say that the girls rode back on an I. & C. traction car.

New Styles for Fall in Wooltex Suits

We take pleasure in announcing THE ADVANCE FALL SHOWING OF WOOLTEX COATS, SUITS AND SKIRTS. The first collection of the handsome new garments for the Fall, 1914, has arrived. It is a very choice and attractive assemblage of Wooltex garments, such as will be wanted immediately by women who enjoy being the first to wear the new fashions.

The models shown are in the most charming effects that the season has produced. Styles as expressed in Wooltex apparel are authoritative. The garments are designed and tailored with exceptional artistic skill, bringing out the completest beauty of the season's styles in the most original fabrics.

The straight line effect is a dominating feature, but it is made very graceful and charming by the influence of the ripples which are produced in the coats, suits and skirts.

There are too many splendid features to tell about here. We invite you to come and view the exhibition—and see the garments themselves—what new beauties the fall fashions have presented.

RACES FIRST DAY ARE SLOW

Track Slightly Heavy and Straight Heats Rule at Rush County Fair Track Events.

ROAD TROT WON BY FOLEY

Fred Dagler Drives Bridmore to First Place in 2:27 Trot—Knisely is Starter.

About the usual Wednesday crowd witnessed the first races of the program at the Rush county fair. The track was slightly heavy because of the rain of the past two days, but it dried out wonderfully yesterday while the races were in progress and should be in fine shape for this afternoon.

The first race of the program the 2:30 pace was won by Flame Direct, owned by Richard Davis of Oxford, Ohio. Flame Direct won in straight heats, the best time being 2:22 1/4 made in the second heat. There were five starters and the event was very close. Dimuter, owned by Harry Mueller of Milton and The Rambler, owned by Kelley Smith of Greensburg split second and third moneys.

A small field started in the 2:27 trot, which was finally won by Fred Dagler, driving Bridmore. The best time was 2:24 1/4, made in the second heat by Hesitate, driven by Blackburn. Bridmore after losing the second heat came back and captured the next two. Blackburn tried hard with Hesitate to come back but could not head Dagler.

Interest centered in the county road trot for local horses. The race was won in straight heats by Jerry Foley, who drove Lady F. Nellie W., driven by Chester Turner and Lad Gladdox, driven by Adams, split second and third moneys. The best time was 2:51 made in the last heat. Foley drove Lady F., a pretty race and apparently was never in danger.

W. O. Knisely of Kokomo is acting as starter this year and in the first day gave perfect satisfaction.

Funds Pour Into London From Men and Women in all Stations in Life for War Use

WOMEN GIVING THEIR JEWELRY

Women Throughout City are Taking Active Part and Helping in Other Relief Measures

(By United Press.)

London, Aug. 13.—(By mail to New York)—Funds from men and women in all stations in life, are pouring into Devonshire house for the British Red Cross society. Women, unable to contribute cash, have given jewelry. A Russian woman presented a valuable brooch, another a hundred ruble note and a third contributed a set of jubilee coins.

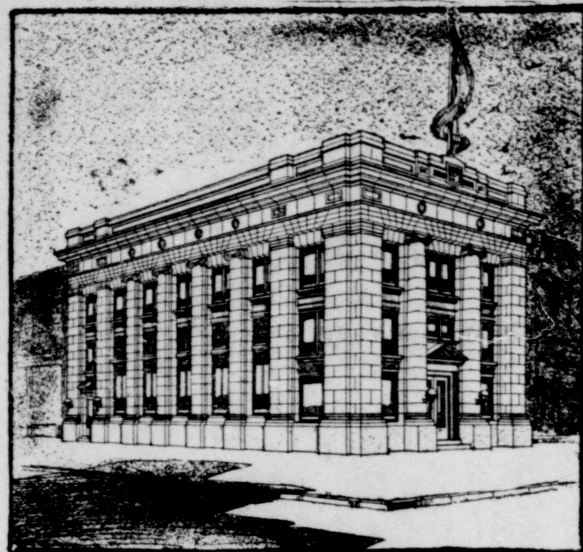

Those in charge of the Red Cross headquarters, were deeply touched when a poor widow who said she "wished to do all she could", gave a silver watch, a gold locket and a shilling with a hole in it.

Women throughout London are taking an active part in the Red Cross work and aiding the direction of other relief measures. President Mrs. Boyle, of the Women's Freedom League, is backing a movement to obtain official recognition for a body of women to act as special constables. Mrs. Boyle would have the constables attached to the regular force and directed by metropolitan police authorities.

American women of England, have offered to furnish funds for a fully equipped surgical hospital, to be operated in connection with the Red Cross society and providing sufficient funds are raised a hospital ship will also be equipped.

Lady Arthur Paget, Lady Lowther, Mrs. Lulu Harcourt and Lady Randolph Churchill, were the first to appeal to the American women to aid the relief fund movement.

The Little Theatre has been turned over to the women's emergency crops and several hundred women have enrolled there to care for children.

EARLY FALL EXHIBIT

Notably Coats, Suits, Skirts

Signs of busy preparation for this occasion have been seen throughout the store for many days. THE LADIES' READY TO WEAR DEPARTMENT ON OUR SECOND FLOOR is now a veritable exposition of all the worthy work that has newly come from fashion's fingers. For novelty, for artistic merit of each garment, for the permanency of the styles shown and the lack of short-lived "freakish costumes this exhibit is par excellence.

AUTUMN'S MOST EXCLUSIVE FASHIONS

THE DRESS GOODS AND SILK SECTION

likewise has taken on new life and color, now reflecting from a thousand examples the mind and purpose of fashion. Women who experience a sense of satisfaction and the lack of short-lived "freakish" costumes this exhibit is par excellence.

FAIR VISITORS

A special welcome and a special place in the hospitality of the store is accorded all who attend the fair. Come in and make use of our many store privileges. They are for your convenience. USE THEM.
